Often, the term Celtic music is applied to the music of Ireland and Scotland, because both places have produced well-known distinctive styles which actually have genuine commonality and clear mutual influences.

"Song to the Lady of the Fair Hair" from the Book of Heroes

*O Lady of the Fair Hair, Sing to me of the fair ancient land.
Yours divine voice Whispers the poetry of magic that flow through the wind, Like sweet-tasting water of the Boyne.
"Girls, forever young and beautiful,
Dancing around the broken dun,
Where long forgotten heroes sang of victory
And drank ales
to old memories.
"Sing to me one last time,
Goddess of the Fair Hair,
Before my old ear fails me.
Let me see you dance,
Before your beauty fade away from my failing sight."*
